PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Sherry Hylton

It was He who gave some to be apostles, some to be prophets, some to be evangelists, and some to be pastors and teachers, to prepare God's people for works of service, so that the body of Christ may be built up...

Ephesians 4:11 &12

Ever since I accepted this position a few years ago, I have been thinking about the articles I might write. I have known the entire time, that one of my articles would be about 'serving others'. I'm not sure why, but when I look back, I know that it has always been very important to me, that I use any gifts I may have, to serve others. After all, "It is the Lord, our God, we are serving." (Col. 3:24) Let me fess right up and say, there have been more times than not, that when it came around to the time to perform said task, I might say, "Why in the world did I volunteer to do this? I am so tired! Why did I think that I could handle this?" When I think back to when I was in high school, my dad said to me multiple times, "You have more business than a Philadelphia Lawyer!" However, I want each one of you to understand, you will NEVER regret any task you perform in the name of God. NEVER!!! And not only will you not regret it, but once you have done the job, you will feel that you were the one that was blessed! And you will be! I promise!!! I look back on little things I did in the past, and I can now see that clearly. I was an elementary school teacher for nearly 30 years, and we raised 3 children. My husband always said, "The black cloud moves over our house every Sunday evening!" So, the first time I was approached about doing FYF for the 'little kids' on Sunday evenings, I thought "no way", but I felt that NUDGE. Years later when we needed to form a new Youth Group for fourth, fifth and sixth graders, I felt that NUDGE. When we needed Children's Church leaders, Christmas Play leaders..., well, you know the story. Then, almost 14 years ago, my friend, Jan Dough, called and said, "It's time for us to step up. They need us on the NCUSFW Board." Honestly, I thought she was crazy! Yes, I had been in our Circle forever, and had even been the President, but there was no way I could be in any position equivalent to what Adis Beeson had done all those years. But I guess you know how that went!!! So today I want to stress to each of you, that everyone has been given gifts from God. Yes, they are all different, but if someone asks you to serve, then obviously you have a gift they have recognized. There are no words to express to you the joy I have gained serving on this Board. The women I have met and have had fellowship with have added so much to my life. The Missions I have learned about, and continue to learn about, have widened my eyes to what the needs are in our world. I am being blessed.

So, my friends, I encourage each one of you to ask yourself this question: Am I using the gifts God gave me to serve others? If you are approached to join our NCUSFW Board, please consider accepting this blessing. Your life will be enriched.

ADULT MISSIONARY EDUCATION

Edith Shepherd

To whom and when shall we go? The answer is very simple - we must go, and only go, when we are sent, and go where people are and especially where there are no Friends."

John H. Hughes- (1940) Christian Faith and Practice in the Experience of the Society of Friends.

If you read the FUM newsletter, you already know the happy news from Cuba Yearly Meeting. A new Worship Group has started meeting in Santiago de Cuba, under the care of Cuba Yearly Meeting. Yerandi Ricardo Reyes and wife Zucel Caminero Pérez moved to Zucel's relatives house in Santiago de Cuba to begin the work, and at the same time, to secure the property since houses cannot be empty or occupied by people who are not relatives for long before they pass to the hands of the government.

In my communications with Yerandi, I learned that they began the work on March 25, 2023 and they meet on Wednesdays and Saturdays at night with adults, and on Sunday mornings they meet with the children. On Wednesdays the adults participate in Bible studies and prayer meetings. On Saturday nights they listen to the messages brought to them by Yerardi. The average is eight adults.

The children's program consists of Bible stories, games, songs, sports and art work. He also says that they find a way to provide refreshments for them. He also says that the parents and the community appreciate the work they are doing with the children very much. At the present time, the average number of children that attend Sunday School is 15. He happily reports that more children are beginning to come for which he is thankful. At the beginning, they found resistance from the parents, but now they realize how happy they are with the programs, and they want their children to participate.

I asked Zucel, Yerandi's wife, if she had plans to organize a USFW group, and she wrote that at the present time there is not a Women Society. She regularly meets with the women to pray for them, their children and families. They also visit the sick and when financial help is available, they help those in need.

In my contact with these Friends, I sense their joy and commitment to this mission work in a small and poor neighborhood in the outskirts of the city.

Both Zucel and Yerandi have connected with other churches in the community and often participate in programs and workshops, which help them gain more knowledge in theology and church history. In one of the gatherings under the theme "Fellowship with God and Others," they felt the fellowship, love and support of many brothers and sisters in Christ. This expression of love and support encourages them to continue their ministry.

These Friends need our spiritual support and they work hard under difficult circumstances to continue the work that Quakers began in Cuba in 1900. It is interesting to note that Yerandi is originally from Gibara. It was in this port of sea that the first missionaries began the work of Quakers in Cuba.

Let's continue to pray for these Friends and for all of those involved and participating in this endeavor.

Food for Thought

I have recently been trying out a lot of different recipes. I really enjoy cooking and baking. With all of the cooking shows and the easy access to online recipes, there are an endless number of recipes available to us.

Many years ago, I began collecting cookbooks. That was the way you looked for recipes in years past. My first cookbook was a Betty Crocker cookbook for kids. My parents gave it to me for my birthday. My mother encouraged me to try out the recipes in that little cookbook. Some were easy and others needed to be repeated a few times to get them right.

All of the recipes in all of those cookbooks provide a way to prepare foods to nourish our bodies. How do we provide our bodies with food for thought, food for our brains? The answer is to read! As food helps our body grow, reading helps our minds grow. Books help us grow in knowledge and understanding.

Our new books will be arriving soon. They will be available for purchase at our Spring USFW Conference at Quaker Lake on May 18. A list of the new books will be sent out as soon as I receive it.

If you have not participated in our reading program before, I hope you will consider participating this year. You just need to read one book from the four categories or read three books and either read the Advocate or attend a USFW Conference. The Reading Report form, that has been included, should be filled out and returned to me by August 1. If you have questions, just give me a call!

Just a little food for thought.

Are you growing, as a Christian, in your knowledge and understanding? I can help you with that!

Prayers for God’s continued blessings,
 Sarah Cox 336-963-2710

CHILDREN AND YOUTH EDUCATION

Pat Core

It's the beginning of another year. As we reflect on the past, we are instantly reminded of the many blessings that have come our way. It is with a sincere spirit of gratitude that we express thanksgiving to our Heavenly Father for his goodness in so many ways. We are especially grateful for the advent season when our focus has been on preparing and welcoming Jesus. Young and old alike have been reminded of the importance of choosing Jesus, believing in Him, and committing ourselves to serve Him.

Do we as adults willingly serve our creator? Children are taught from early childhood the value as well as rewards of helping others. This pattern of service continues throughout the years. We have the perfect model to follow in the life of Jesus. Our children and youth follow our example much the same as we should follow the example of the master teacher.

Of course, responsibility comes with service. One must be willing to sacrifice time as well as resources to be an effective servant. Be mindful what God wants is a willing heart. The major responsibility as Christians is to tell others about Him. There are many ways of telling others—sharing, being kind, being respectful, showing love. The mission field is all around. Are each of us doing our part?

I'm reminded of some of the advice Robert Fulghum offered in his best seller years ago, "All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten".

---Play fair

---Share everything

---Don't take things that are not yours

---Say you're sorry when you hurt someone

---Clean up your mess

These are very good principles to remember. They provide a solid foundation on which to base our service to others.

Just as each New Year brings a sense of renewal may it also bring you and yours peace, joy, and happiness.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE

Judy Craven

“Rivers Do Not Drink Their Own Water”

When I saw this title to Elizabeth Mulimi's Christian Service article in the September-October, 2023 issue of The Advocate, it caught my eye and I wanted to understand the meaning of this title. Elizabeth Mulimi is the Christian Service Secretary for USFWI and she lives in Kenya, Africa. I will be using excerpts from her article.

“The sole purpose of the existence of any human life, no matter the social status, is based on service that begets an impact on the lives of others.”...”The title of this article draws inspiration from the acknowledged words by Pope Francis when he said, “Rivers do not drink their own water; trees do not eat their own fruit; the sun does not shine on itself and flowers do not spread their fragrance for themselves. Living for others is a rule of nature. We are all born to help each other. No matter how difficult it is....Life is good when you are happy; but much better when others are happy because of you.”

The harmony in our world we call Mother Nature shows how elements of nature blend together to serve one another and all of human kind. Two examples in history of lives totally dedicated to serving others are Mahatma Ghandi and Mother Teresa. Each served their fellowmen in India, one to free them from harsh British rule and the other to care for the poor and sick of Calcutta.

“The laws of nature compel the necessity of service with undeniable diligence that does in turn bring about influence on others, satisfaction to self, and undoubtedly, the definition of the purpose of human life. Great joy and satisfaction come when you help others in need, and with that service come abundant blessings from our Father in heaven. We should therefore teach our children and those around us to live for others, to help without expecting anything in return. A candle consumes itself to give light to the surroundings, and that is exactly what we as Christians are called to do. Friends, let us seek happiness by helping others in every way possible.”

“Rise Up, O Women of God!”

“Rise up, O women of God! Have done with lesser things;
Give heart and soul and mind and strength To serve the King of Kings.”

“Rise up, O women of God! His Kingdom tarries long;
Bring in the day of human kind And end the night of wrong.”

“Rise up, O women of God! The Church for you doth wait,
Her strength unequal to her task; Rise up, and make her great!”

“Lift high the cross of Christ! Tread where His feet have trod;
As sisters of the Son of Man, Rise up, O women of God!”

Apologies to William P. Merrill
