

Facebook is Now Deleting Your Live Videos!

Yes, you read that correctly!
Facebook made the announcement by email to those that have Facebook live streamed videos for any reason. They are removing any videos that are older than 30 days. This announcement started February 19, 2025. This means that if you have live streamed any since 2/19/2025 you will lose that Video starting today. You have any videos older than 2/19/2025 you have a grace period of May 26 to download them to save them to your computer or upload them to another service like YouTube.

Today March 20, 2025 anything you live streamed on February 19 is now deleted. You can ask for a one-time grace period but you need to act right away. This means any funerals, church service or special stream or any reason will also be deleted if you did it as a Facebook live stream. It does not matter if you used your Phone, Computer, or professional streaming equipment. I highly suggest you all switch to YouTube to start streaming any of your services to preserve them for the future. If you need more details, I have several links below.

How to save your Facebook Videos:

<https://www.facebook.com/business/help/3579146952128313?id=1123223941353904>

Facebook's notification to customers:

<https://www.facebook.com/business/help/1005165994166600>

Facebook's own article on what to do:

<https://about.fb.com/news/2025/02/updating-our-facebook-live-video-storage-policy/>